STATION W. L. O. BROADCASTS

Carmel's third Bach Festival should enlist the enthusiastic support of every man and woman in the community. The artistic character of the enterprise is, of course, paramount, but aside from that, the affair has a considerable commercial value.

Sam Blyth's new magazine should make a hit. I do not know if Sam's connection with the Satevepost has terminated, but if it has, it is the new publication's gain and the Post's loss.

The wisdom of the people in voting the firehouse bonds and of the city trustees in providing for two paid full time firemen is evidenced by the reduction in insurance premiums. Whatever the cost of these innovations, it is more than compensated for by the reduced rates and increased confidence in the efficiency of the fire department.

A short time ago I overheard a group of people trying to decide where to go out for dinner. So many places were mentioned that it started me enumerating the number of commercial eating places in Carmel. I counted 19. In a population of 2500 in private homes, it would take a Babson to figure how a score of eating places keep their doors open. Sequel: The group mentioned decided to dine in Monterey.

I am glad that the Carmel city trustees decided to maintain the four-man police force. Basing the size of a police force upon the permanent population is not applicable in Carmel. Why? Because of the influx of tourists and sojourners who are entitled to police guidance in the matter of auto traffic.

Years ago I called attention to the fact that Carmel was one of the very few California cities that permitted all-night auto parking on its streets. The custom is an ever-growing menace to life and limb, owing to lack of street lights and poorly defined roadways. The practice should be eliminated by a penalty ordinance.

I hope the efforts of the Carmel Business Association to obtain for this city a government-owned post-office building will meet with success. Why must the patrons of the office and the postal workers put up with inadequate quarters? Such conditions tend to slow up service to the public and retards that efficiency which the government workers are competent and anxious to give. Congressman McGrath should have taken this matter in hand long before this.

May I suggest that Carmel have a Garden Show and a Flower Show this year. These affairs could be most efficiently handled by the Carmel Women's Club and would add much to the fame of our so different Carmel.

BELOVED RESIDENT TAKEN BY DEATH

*"To mark thy spirit soar above
The cloud of human ills."*

—John Greenleaf Whittier.

Olga Fish is dead. Her sufferings are over.

She passed away at her attractive country estate, "Palo Corona", in beautiful Carmel Valley, last Saturday night as the hands of the clock indicated the hour of 11.

On Monday morning, a morning of soothing sunshine, of peace and of quiet, a group of relatives, retainers and friends gathered to pay tribute to a loved one who would pass this way no more.

Later, in the beautiful setting of Dorney's funeral home in Monterey, impressive prayers for the dead were said by Rev. Theodore Bell, rector of Del Monte Episcopal chapel, after which the remains were conveyed to Salinas for cremation.

The illness to which Mrs. Fish succumbed was one of long duration, but she was endowed with so much fortitude that only her intimates were aware of the seriousness of her condition. In the midst of her suffering she was cheerful and uncomplaining.

Olga Fish, born Wiborg, was a native of Cincinnati, Ohio. She was married to Sidney Webster Fish in 1915. Besides the husband, a 13-year-old son, Stuyvesant, survives.

During her 10 years of nearly continuous residence in the vicinity of Carmel, Pebble Beach and Monterey, Mrs. Fish was an active and enthusiastic worker and patron of many forms of human endeavor and advancement.

Mrs. Fish has been referred to as a socialite. She was. But she was the type of socialite who found joy in giving others pleasure and comfort and aid. She found time to devote to the children of Monterey Community Center. She was much interested in hospital work. She gave a great measure of her time and talent to things theatrical, in this being associated with the Carmel Community Players.

In all that she did she was always generous with her means and was a charming and gracious entertainer.

Wherever Olga Fish found herself—in city or village, at home or abroad—she immediately attracted a group of friends and workers and plunged enthusiastically into a multitude of varying activities.

Olga Fish will be missed; how she will be missed. She has passed into another sphere, but the things she gave of kindness, of talent, of means, of friendship, will live long and gloriously.

Carmel to be Headquarters for Production of "Miracles of Sports" Movie Shorts; Headed by Bob Edgren

By RONALD JOHNSON

After innumerable reports of Carmel's becoming the site of a motion picture studio, all of which have proved erroneous, rumors have become facts, and before this issue of The Pine Cone has reached the hands of its many readers, pictures, real pictures, will be in the first stages of production right here in Carmel's own Filmarte theater.

You may not realize it, but if everything goes along smoothly as it should, Carmel will be the scene of production of what promises to be the most successful series of movie shorts produced in many a day. If you pass the Filmarte during the next month or so and see that the lights are not on and that the house seems deserted, don't pity the poor management for not being able to make the place pay, because if you do, you will be very much mistaken. Inside that theater are men working night and day, exactly as they do in Hollywood, producing the first of a series of short sport films featuring "Miracles of Sports", written by Robert Edgren of Pebble Beach, ex-athlete, prominent sport authority and author of the newspaper feature of the same name that has amazed and entertained readers from coast to coast for many years.

The Filmarte will only be closed for a month, after which it will open to the public and show the first of the "Miracles of Sports" pictures. Carmelites will be glad to hear that Richard Bare, manager of the Filmarte, will be vice-president in charge of production for Security Pictures Corporation of Hollywood and Carmel, and that his theater will be the place where all work but developing of the film will be done. Reason for closing the Filmarte is that some time must be taken to install the costly and modern recording apparatus that will be used for recording music and the well known voice of Rush Hughes, famous radio commentator, who will supply the narrative for the series.

Associated with his father and with Mr. Bare will be Robert Edgren, Jr., who is following close in his father's footsteps. He will turn out scripts and will attend to much of the general business of the company in his position as associate producer.

Cameramen will operate from Hollywood and from Carmel, not only covering events in California, but going all over the country for material. The first short, for instance, will take one of the two camera crews to Florida, to several states in the middle west and to many spots in California. Among the unusual subjects, which really will be "Miracles of Sports", will be "Miracles of Sports" (Continued on page 13)

Governor Urged to Ban Billboards; Petitions Out

If the opinions held by those who attended the mass meeting protesting billboards on the new coast highway are those held by the majority of Monterey county residents, and if the opinion of a large group of voters means anything to those in power at Sacramento, the chances are that the highway will never be lined with the huge boards, as so many California roads are already.

The meeting was a hurriedly called one with nothing but last-minute notice given as to its being held. However, a group of local residents gathered in Sunset school auditorium Monday night to hear Reeve Conover, secretary of the county planning commission, and Carmel Martin, head of the commission, speak on the danger of a bill which is on the point of being passed by the state legislature and which allows the billboards to be placed along state highways, whether or not the counties have passed zoning ordinances prohibiting such action. The bill now before the assembly and already passed by the state senate with a "do pass" recommendation, is Senate Bill 183, Section 9 being the part which deprives counties of the right to protect the scenic beauty of their roads. Monterey county and several others have passed zoning laws which will be invalid if the bill now before the assembly is passed by that body and signed by the governor.

Mr. Martin, who opened the meeting, said that the natural beauty of the new highway is one of the greatest assets of this territory and that every possible step should be taken immediately to preserve it.

"It is not hard to imagine," he said, "the appearance of the splendid new road between Monterey and San Luis Obispo if the move to legalize billboards becomes a fact."

Mr. Martin introduced Reeve Conover, who is one of the most ardent fighters for the beauty of roads and towns in Monterey county. Mr. Conover recommended that every member of the audience sign a petition addressed to the governor stating that the people wish him to veto the bill when and if it does pass the assembly, which it shows every sign of doing. He pointed out that immediate action was necessary, saying that the large billboard companies were using great pressure to have the bill passed. The petitions were circulated in the audience and may also (Continued on page 3)

Two Fines and Warning for Traffic Violations

Three arrests, the usual number per week during the quiet season, were made by the police department during the last week. All were for minor traffic violations. The unlucky three were Joe De Amaral, Gordon S. Armsby and Ray Hamilton.

De Amaral was nicked for a $5 fine by Judge George P. Ross for driving without an operator's license. Hamilton was assessed $10 for speeding on San Carlos street, and Armsby was warned to make sure he has his license in his pocket or in his car next time he goes driving.

Public Invited to Visit And Inspect New Firehouse

The new Carmel firehouse, at first a possibility, then a probability, is now an actuality.

Tomorrow afternoon and all day Sunday, the fire department is planning to hold open house at their new headquarters on Sixth street, showing those who pay them a visit the fine new building, their uniforms and their fire apparatus.

The firehouse itself is not quite finished. There still is painting to be done and numerous odd jobs about the place will keep workmen occupied for several days, but the department decided that this week-end would be the appropriate time to hold their opening, and now the public is cordially invited to inspect the building from one end to the other.

The street floor is occupied almost completely by the spacious and well-lit room where the engines will be kept. While there is space for four pieces of apparatus, the department now has but two. There is a possibility, however, that an ambulance will be kept at the firehouse in the near future. The main downstairs room measures 45 by 55 feet, has four main doors opening onto the street, and is lighted by 16 powerful lamps. The doors are operated from the seats of the trucks, the drivers pulling on ropes that hang from the ceiling.

Upstairs are three bedrooms for the six firemen who will sleep in the building, the chief's office and the main hall and recreation room. There are two brass rails down which the smoke eaters will slide when a call comes in, one leading from the chief's office and the other accessible through a door in the corner (Continued on page 4)

Carmel Legion Dinner Dance An Enjoyable Affair

A large and gay crowd of Carmelites gathered at American Legion hall last Saturday night to attend the American Legion Club's spring dinner and dance. Almost all the guests were there early to enjoy the delicious turkey dinner and all stayed until the very end of the last dance.

A feature of the evening was the floor show staged by pupils of Ruth Austin. A tap dance number was given by a group of four girls, Anne Whitman, Emma Ann Wishart, Meta Gossler and Beverley Leidig. Patty Lou Elliott presented a tap dance solo. The third number on the program was Oriental, done by Bettie Rae Sutton. Trudi Allen Husing, first violin soloist with the Sacramento Symphony, kindly lent her services to the occasion and played several solos. The number "Three Girls" was presented by Maxine Laney, Patty Lou Elliott and Bettie Rae Sutton. Betty Carr entertained with a dance number entitled "Impromptu" and "Mood Indigo" was interpreted by Bettie Rae Sutton. Lighting effects for the floor show, which was enthusiastically received, (Continued from page 10)

Dr. Evelyn Ott to Speak to Psychology Class

Of special interest this coming week to anyone interested in psychology is announcement that the speaker at the psychology class conducted in the library at Sunset school each Monday night at 8 by Catherine W. Nelson will be Dr. Evelyn Reynolds Ott, long a recognized authority and speaker on the subject. She will speak on "The Theories of Jung."

Dr. Ott, who has recently moved to Carmel, comes with a wealth of training and experience behind her. After she graduated from medical school, she studied under Adolph Meyer at the Henry Phipps Psychiatric Clinic of Johns Hopkins university. Following her study there, she spent two years in Zurich, studying with the great C. G. Jung. She then went to Berkeley, where she conducted a private practice and

White Men Still Are Termed Strangers by Natives of Islands

Racial prejudice still exists in Hawaii. The aloha, the traditional friendliness of the Hawaiians, has done much to break down that feeling, yet the smart of it remains. White men are termed haoles, the Hawaiian word for strangers, with the multitudinous eastern and southern races standing outside the grouping. The Portuguese, strangely enough, though with education and prominence capable of attaining all the outward standing of haoles, never quite reach that position.

The Japanese, originally brought in by planters, began, by 1893, to make serious efforts toward colonization of the islands. But the United States settled that attempt by annexation.

Second largest racial group in Hawaii is now the Filipinos. In 1906 15 of them came to work on the island plantations; these were followed by droves of their countrymen.

Population of Hawaii by races: Hawaiian, 22,636; part-Hawaiian, 28,224; White, 80,373; Chinese, 27,179; Japanese, 139,631; Filipino, 63,062; Korean, 6,461; Negro, 563; other races, 217.—Review of Reviews.

gained an outstanding reputation. Her appearance at the meeting Monday night is an event of great importance, and Mrs. Nelson urges Carmelites, whether or not they have been at the meetings before, to be in the school library Monday night to hear this famous speaker.

Mrs. Lura B. St. Claire, who has been spending the winter here with her sister, Saidee Van Brower, has left for her home in Halcyon.

Doctors Endorse Ambulance Plan To Take Care of Emergency Cases

Is there a definite need for a community ambulance in Carmel? This query was made this week to the six members of the medical staff of Peninsula Community Hospital, with offices in Carmel.

It was the unanimous opinion of these doctors that there exists a crying need for an ambulance that would not only take care of emergency cases but that could be utilized by invalids, as a means of transportation between home and hospital.

With the opening of the coast highway in June, there seems to be no question but that Carmel should be made the base for handling accidents and that this is the logical center from which to operate ambulance and first aid service.

At a meeting of the board of governors of Carmel Chapter American Red Cross, last week, C. W. Lee, chapter chairman, stated that the Red Cross had been approached by a number of citizens with the plea that the chapter sponsor a fund with which to purchase an ambulance for this district. Fire Commissioner Bernard Rowntree had also said that there was a place in the new fire house where an ambulance could be stationed and that some plan could be evolved whereby the rescue squad would be responsible for the operation of the service. Already 12 members of the rescue squad possess Red Cross first aid certificates.

Lee appointed J. L. Cockburn and H. S. Crossman of the executive committee to investigate the situation and report their findings for a feasible plan of procedure.

"Certainly, Carmel needs an ambulance," said Dr. John R. Gray. "The Red Cross seems to be the logical organization to sponsor such an undertaking. I feel certain that some satisfactory arrangement can be made with Community Hospital, whereby the Carmel members of the staff can cooperate in its operation. It might be possible to arrange for a staff nurse to accompany the ambulance in case of any serious accident."

"We, of the medical profession feel the need of an ambulance in the Carmel and Pebble Beach district," said Dr. Paul M. Hunter. "And, I feel certain that if Red Cross would sponsor such a plan that it would receive warm cooperation from our citizens."

"In this growing community, there comes increasing need for an ambulance to render adequate service," said Dr. Edwin F. Kehr. "The professional group have been in close contact with Red Cross in its humanitarian program and the installation of an adequate ambulance service would be another step in bringing aid to those in need of surgical and medical attention. I feel certain that the details of operation could be worked out satisfactorily."

Dr. R. A. Kocher feels that every community should possess an ambulance service that would operate on a 24-hour basis and as it is not possible at this time for Community Hospital to install an ambulance, the next best thing would be for Red Cross to be the agency to bring such service to our people.

"Outside of accidents, requiring immediate attention, I do not see why it would not be possible to charge a nominal service fee for ambulance cases," said Dr. J. B. McCarthy. "This would be an aid toward proper maintenance and provide a fund for the operators of the vehicle. Certainly Carmel needs an ambulance."

Dr. Margaret N. Levick, for several years, has been urging the installation of ambulance service in Carmel and the Highlands and expressed herself in favor of any concrete plan that would be a factor in the saving of human life.

Patricia Hall, Carmel Girl Scout, Receives Golden Eaglet Award

Proving herself as a young woman whose "character, physical and mental fitness, preparedness for service, and spirit of good will mark her as a First Class Scout, exceptional in achievement and personal development, in the judgment of both her community and the national organization," Patricia Hall, on April 15 received the highest award in the Girl Scout organization, the Golden Eaglet pin.

Only two other Monterey peninsula girls have qualified for this honor. Miss Marjorie Banta of Pacific Grove received the Golden Eaglet in March of 1933. She was the first girl in this vicinity to receive this rarely given pin, her Scout leader at that time was Mrs. Robert Getz. In May of 1935, Miss Evelyn de Bolt of Monterey was given the award, her Scout leader being Mrs. Julian Burnett. Mrs. Frank Hatton, captain of Troop One of which Patricia is a member, presented the pin to Patricia at the Court of Awards and Investiture, and stressed the fact that in order to qualify for the Golden Eaglet, the girl scout must have 21 proficiency badges, 17 of them obligatory and the others optional; her standing as a scout and a member of the community must be of the highest. Patricia Hall is the daughter of Mrs. O. Bachelier Hall of Carmel. She is a graduate of the Monterey Union High School, where she is now doing post graduate work in biology.

The court of awards conferred the following proficiency badges: Laura Bixler, health winner badge; Adeline Guth, junior citizen badge; Patricia Hall, cyclist badges; Dorothy Nash and Jean Norton, health winner badges; Charlotte Townsend, Gerry Shepherd, and Ann Whitman, junior citizen badges; Emma Ann Wishart, junior citizen and scout-aid badges; Elsie Beaton, health winner and citizen badges; Beverly Douglas, health winner badge; Jacqueline Klein, handy woman and junior citizen badges; Charlotte May, health winner and junior citizen; Lillian Ohm, handy woman badges; Clara Walls, handy woman badge; Harriet Hatton, world knowledge, handy woman and junior citizen badges; Alice Vidoroni, observer housekeeper, and junior citizen badges; Patsy Shepherd, artist badge; Gerry Shepherd, health winner, junior hostess badges; Anne Millis, handy woman, junior citizen and housekeeper badges; Barbara Haasis, swimmer, scholarship, homemaker, hostess, photographer and woodcraft badges; Patricia Hall, Golden Eaglet award.

In addition to the Court of Awards, the regular routine took place and included the flag ceremony and a candlelight investiture at which Camilla Roe took the first step in becoming a Girl Scout. Virginia Grogan and Dorothy Nash became second class scouts, and Alice Vidoroni made her first class rating.

TIGHTEN CHASSIS

After a car has been washed and the chassis cleaned, it is a good time to go over and tighten all nuts and bolts, advises the Emergency Road Service of the California State Automobile Association. If this has not been done recently it will often result in reducing or eliminating many squeaks and rattles.

Governor Urged to Ban Billboards; Petitions Out

Members of the audience then rose to give their ideas on the subject and numerous plans were offered, the most popular being that which recommended telegrams and letters be sent to Governor Merriam and Assemblyman Ellis E. Patterson. The telegrams were sent Monday night after the meeting and the audience was urged to follow them with letters. One member of the audience told how the billboard situation had been cleared up in the middle west by clubwomen, who wrote letters to the sign advertisers saying they would refuse to buy their products if they continued to use the signs and spoil the view. It was also pointed out that the same plan had been used in Hawaii with immediate results.

The ordinance prohibiting the billboards was passed not long ago after the county planning commission had looked into the matter and recommended to the board of supervisors that such a step be taken. At the time, it was understood that the billboard interests had representatives in this area protesting the measure, but when they saw their protests would bring no results, went to Sacramento and forced the new senate bill to be written and put before the legislature.

Week-end guests of Mrs. M. C. Sampson were Mrs. Harry Jordan and Mrs. Elsie Konkle, both of Berkeley.

Fine Program at Sunset School All Next Week; Open House to Prevail

Public School Week, the time when parents and citizens have every opportunity to become acquainted with the actual work being done in the schools and with the men and women who teach their children, begins Monday, April 26, and continues on through Friday, offering to all who attend a varied, interesting and educational program. Principal Otto W. Bardarson and the faculty of Sunset school have extended a cordial invitation to every adult in Carmel, asking them to attend all of the many programs, exhibits, meetings and numerous other things to be offered for their approval.

While Public School Week begins Monday, the first real activity will take place Tuesday night at the school. In the auditorium, beginning at 7:30, students of the school will present a program that promises to be most interesting, as the boys and girls will display their talents in orchestral work, dramatization of old nursery rhymes, singing and folk dancing. Following is the complete program for the entertainment in the auditorium.

1. Orchestra: Minuet (Bach); Cradle Song (Schubert); Queen's Romance (Haydn); Gavotte (Handel).
2. Kindergarten Orchestra: Parade of the Wooden Soldiers (Leon Jessel).
3. Nursery dramatization: London Bridge, Old Woman in the Shoe, Pop Goes the Weasel, Three Kittens, The Kitchen Clock, Hickory Dickory Dock, Jack and Jill, Crooked Man, Mistress Mary, Little Bo Peep, Wee Willie Winkle, Land of Nod. Percussion setting—Patty Ann Ryland.
4. Verse Choir: The Rock-A-Bye Lady (Eugene Field); A Dirge for a Righteous Kitten (Vachel Lindsay); Foreboding (Don Blanding).
5. A cappella choir: Evening Song, Lithuanian; Dance Song, Swedish; O Spirit Sweet of Summer Time, Irish; The Hopak, Russian; Drink to Me Only With Thine Eyes, English.
6. Folk Dances: Ace of Diamonds, Dance of Greeting, Norwegian Mountain March.
7. Boys' Group: Old Refrain (Kreisler); Endymion (I. O. Horn); Negro Song (Kern).

After the auditorium program is concluded the entire school will be turned over to parents and friends for inspection. Every classroom will be open and the teachers will be in attendance to meet the visitors and show the work that has been done by the children. The exhibits of art and shop work promise to be particularly interesting.

Wednesday afternoon, open house will be held, with visitors invited to visit the many classrooms and see the children at work. The open house will continue on through Thursday and Friday. Mr. Bardarson wishes to emphasize the fact that everyone should come to the school at least once in the three days, and that the school really is open, every bit of it, to the public.

Friday morning at 11:20, the children will conduct a student body meeting in the auditorium. The children will conduct the entire meeting, making awards for athletic achievements and attending to student body affairs. This, too, is open to everyone. Immediately after school on Friday afternoon, the first and second teams will put on a baseball game, and as both these teams are known for their ability, the afternoon should prove interesting.

Sunset school is noted for its fine buildings, equipment and staff, and no adult interested in children and education should miss any of the activity there during the coming week. It is the public's school and the public is invited to come and watch it function.

Illustrated Talk By Art Critic

Owing to Public Schools Week activities at Sunset school, the lecture of Forbes Watson, noted New York Art critic, will be held in Room S-65, old Music building, Monterey Union high school at 8:00 p. m. on Tuesday, April 27, according to L. E. Wormley, director of the adult education department of Monterey Union high school, sponsor of the Carmel forum lecture series.

Forbes Watson, advisor to the treasury department art projects and editor of the Bulletin of the Section of Painting and Sculpture, was formerly art critic of the New York Evening Post and later art critic of the New York World. In addition to his present work in the treasury department, he is a visiting lecturer on art in the summer school of Columbia University.

Enroute to San Francisco from Washington and a speaking engagement in Santa Barbara, Mr. Watson will stop Tuesday on the Monterey Peninsula. While here he will be a guest speaker of the Monterey Union Adult School. The topic of his talk will be "Art That Belongs to the People." Mr. Watson's talk will include an illustrated discussion of the various new art developments in the various sections of the United States. This lecture is part of the regular Adult Education Program and is open to the public without charge.

Mrs. John Reck, Old Resident, Passes On

Last Monday morning, 73-year-old Mrs. Mary Reck passed away in this city, where she had been a resident for 15 years. She was born in New York. Besides her husband, John Reck, she leaves a daughter, Mrs. Fred M. Tolle of Carmel; a son, Frank G. Davis of Minnesota; and a sister, Mrs. George W. King, also of Minnesota.

Dorney's funeral home removed the body to Fresno for burial.

Barn owls will eat their own weight in food every night.

Best Buy At Carmel Highlands

We have a most beautiful piece of land listed with us, which can be had, if bought soon, at a most reasonable figure. It is an acre in size, lying high above the highway, with unobstructed view of ocean and mountains. Fine trees. Road into the land. One or two building sites, rest sloping down into tree-filled ravine.

What a Pal She Turned Out To Be

Carmel, Calif., April 22, 1937.
William L. Overstreet,
Carmel, Calif.

Dear Bill:

Greetings and salutations across a long span of years, dear old friend.

I hear you're running this week's Pine Cone and I am invited to say something about the good old times when you and I were partners on The Carmel Pine Cone.

Only the highlights of our association are still with me. Such as the epic of Pat, the pressman. How he would disappear two nights before The Pine Cone was to be printed, and I would take my little old bus across the hill and search through the various pool-rooms of Monterey, finally find the recreant one and drag him, sobbing and repentant, (Pat, not me) to the car, accompanied by jeers from his associates, bring him back in a state of stupefaction, (his, not mine), fairly throw him into the maw of the yawning press and bid him to go on and get the paper out.

You, Bill, would feed the press from the high platform, and Pat, his hat perched on the back of his head, would get under the press with a mallet and an oil can, and somehow the paper would be printed.

Sometimes we worked until morning, with a crew of the youngbloods of Carmel assisting, and we went home at dawn to snatch a few hours' sleep before appearing at the office for the new day's business.

You were always good-natured, Bill, and a tower of strength. Never lost your head and never got panicky. And Bill Nye was always there with an alliterative headline, and a pat on the back for anyone doing a good day's work. And Kitty—but that's another story.

Kitty was so loyal to you and so proud of you—so simple, so naive, so appealing, so devoted to the helpless, especially cats, puppies and old ladies. My eyes overflow as I remember the dear old days. . . . Our bonfires and suppers on the beach and dancing to the old Victrola at your home till morning.

Do you remember the famous fight between your dog, Brownie, and that magnificent gladiator, Teddy Goold? It was in front of our office and you and the dogs darn near wrecked the building.

Do you remember when we fought to carry the election for bonds for fire equipment, and Perry Newberry licked us, and then when he became trustee, the council passed an ordinance providing for this same fire equipment? Did we chuckle!

Do you remember the fund we raised to finish the Soldiers' Memorial and when we had the amount specified we found that a great deal more would have to be raised, and how furious we were.

And it seemed as if the world had just about come to an end the morning we found that one of the engineers employed by the city to concrete Ocean Avenue had come by night and by stealth had removed every pine tree in our block, and there was not so much as a vestige of a leaf or twig or even a root left. We found that hard to take.

I wonder, Bill, how you feel at the prospect of having the entrance to the village pass your house on Junipero. Your beautiful 100-foot wide natural park will be a thing of the past, and instead of the clumps of green oaks, there will be one or two long white streaks with hundreds of cars going by every hour. The smell of the pines, ferns and lilacs will be supplanted by the smell of gas and oil, and instead of your pet squirrel in front of your house, you will have to look at hordes of sightseers in cars. Well, I suppose you must have them if we're going to sell them real estate, and they have to get into Carmel somehow, but I'll bet you're sorry they have to come down Junipero. I know ye, Bill.

Soon this letter will be so long that you won't have space for it in this week's Pine Cone, and I'd hate that, as it's a long time since I appeared in print. I could ramble on and on about the good old times, but will have to quit and just subscribe myself.

Your old pal,
THE PINE NUT.

Public Invited to Visit Firehouse

of the main room. At one end of the central hall is a stone fireplace over which will be placed a copper plaque now being made. All woodwork is oak.

Halfway up the stairs, arranged so that it may be heard both inside and outside the building, is a large bell; on the roof is the siren; telephones will be placed at convenient locations, and altogether, the alarm system is complete in every detail. When a call comes in, the firemen on duty pushes a button by his bed and lights are turned on throughout the building. He sounds the siren, slides down the pole into the engine room, opens the doors and starts the motor of one and perhaps both trucks. By that time, the first volunteer firemen have arrived and the trucks start rolling. This is the procedure as explained by Fire Commissioner Bernard Rowntree, who has kept a watchful eye on the place since the ground was broken months ago.

Go to the firehouse tomorrow afternoon and Sunday. Look the place over, ask all the questions you wish, and maybe, if you are especially nice to the firemen, you will be permitted to slide down the pole from the chief's office to the big main room below.

Carmelites will be glad to hear that the long-awaited opening of the badminton building at Mission ranch club will take place Saturday night. The affair will be celebrated with a dinner for members and their guests at 7:30.

Jones Book To Be Subject of Discussion

A study group and forum for discussion centering about the theme of "Christ's Alternative to Communism," the title of a book written by E. Stanley Jones, will be inaugurated next Sunday evening in the Community church, and continues during May.

The book will be the text largely used to guide and provoke discussion.

"This generation, or at the most the next," says Jones, in the final statement in his book, "will have to decide between materialistic atheistic Communism and the Kingdom of God on Earth." "Why do people turn to Communism and Atheism in this enlightened 20th Century?" "What is Christ's Alternative which the church has to offer?" These are some of the questions to be discussed. They will appeal to young and old who are alert to present-day trends.

A cordial invitation is extended to members and friends of the church.

From a Window In Vagabond's House

By DON BLANDING

(In place of the regular column written each week for The Pine Cone, a story from the Honolulu Star-Bulletin, describing Mr. Blanding's arrival in Hawaii has been substituted. He left San Francisco April 8, flying to the Islands on one of the Pan American Airway's big clipper ships and will remain in Honolulu to direct the celebration of Lei Day, Hawaii's biggest holiday, which he originated 10 years ago).

Oh some may like their motor-cars

And some they like to row it;
But give me a trip on a Clipper ship

And the life of a flying poet.

Don Blanding climbed out of the Hawaii Clipper at 8:10 this morning. He took one look at the blue sky and dancing sunshine, chucked his hat into the sparkling waters of Pearl Harbor, and waved widely enveloping arms at a small army of friends waiting on Pan American's grassy lawn.

"Gosh, it's good to see you all—hey, George—hello, Jean—you, too, Charlie—"

He rushed up the walk and was engulfed in a wave of leis.

They flowed over his head; shoulders and overflowed onto his arms. Among them were the blue leis that Don Blanding, painter with words and pen and the wizardry of the pageant, loves with an artist's passion and offers the Don Blanding prize for every Lei Day.

Out from the floral haymow he managed to answer questions and gasp a few "first impressions" for newsmen and friends while cameras clicked.

"Greatest thrill of my life . . . The flight, Colonel, to tall Col. George Bicknell, Pan American manager) was marvelous . . . Thank Pan American for getting me aboard on two hours' notice . . . Gave 'em a surprise at that . . . They heard a poet was coming aboard and looked for a chap weighing maybe 120 pounds carrying his unsold volumes . . . When I came down, well—he shrugged his broad shoulders under the leis. (He stands an easy six feet and scales somewhere around 200, maybe a bit more). . . . "They took a look at me and said, "Something will have to come off. After all, no poet is supposed to be well fed." . . . Two fine young folks, these honey-mooners from Chicago (the George Leis) cut their baggage to 15 pounds and that got me aboard, ringside weight, so to speak."

"Where's your baggage, Don?"

"I darn near forgot."

He thrust a hand into a pocket, brought out his sole piece of baggage. Its a safety razor, weighs maybe two ounces.

"And I got a dry shave with it this morning—saved the weight of a cake of soap, you see."

More friends arrived. More leis. More camera shots.

"I could wear a couple of tons of these and feel like hopping right up into that blue sky, and sitting on a cloud like De Lawd in Green Pastures! Gosh, what a day—the kind

Great Book Came Near Not Being Published

About the first, and certainly one of the greatest successes in American book history, was "Quo Vadis", by Henryk Sienkiewicz, yet had it not been for a sort of blind faith on the part of a publisher it might never have reached the American public at all.

Sienkiewicz had a notable success in his native Poland before his books ever were translated into English. Little, Brown & Co. agreed to publish the book "With Fire and Sword", which was launched in 1890 with great hopes. It proved a complete disappointment, only 1922 copies being sold the first year.

Undiscouraged, the publishers brought out "The Deluge" and "Pan Michael", the first selling only 1585 copies in two years and the second 2432. It looked as if Sienkiewicz was doomed to oblivion in America. Polish names, such as Hmelinski, Skshetusk, Vishnyevetski and Salontchikovski bothered the readers of his English translations.

Little, Brown & Co., however, retained faith in the author. In 1896 "Quo Vadis" appeared. Its success was immediate. In edition after edition it swept the country, until it exceeded any previous fiction work in sales. Because the publishers had failed to publish and copyright a Polish text within six months of its publication in Poland, the then existing copyright law failed to protect of a day you only dream about elsewhere."

Somebody said, joking, "Too bad, Don, you have to leave before Lei Day."

"Not unless they carry me, tied, I'm here till October. Got to finish the newest book, "The Rest of the Road."

"And what then?"

"Well, the very newest has just been born. This plane trip does it. "Winged Return"! Here to this place—when you call it paradise you just damn it with faint praise—by air when before I came by sea. Oh, hello Jim! Hello Frank . . . Don"—this last to Don Fitzgerald, KGMB announcer, friend of Blanding's from old Minnesota days. And Don Blanding is godfather of Don Fitzgerald Jr. Winged Return! Back to the land that inspired so many of his books. And there's now a long list of them—Vagabond's House, Songs of the Seven Senses, Hula Moon, Stowaways in Paradise, Memory Room, Let Us Dream, Virgin of Waikiki, Pictures of Paradise, and the latest, The Rest of the Road and Winged Return.

Back to be a chief figure in the tenth Lei Day—the Lei Day he himself suggested a decade ago—he will be the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Frazier at Lanikai. Beyond that, "No special plans. Why worry about accommodations in Paradise. I can always climb on a cloud . . ."

Winged Return! Flick the leaves of Memory Room to that poem to Amelia Earhart: Flight:

"A gallant woman, spreading man-made metal wings,
Defies the savage Daemon of the stormy skies
Undaunted by the fury of his angry eyes

While motors mock his outraged futile mutterings."

Winged Return! Again from Memory Room, written in five minutes on a menu card as a message to a friend:

"Aloha, Farewell." It will ring in your ears.

You'll remember for months . . . you'll remember for years.

The memory will haunt you and surely some day

You're going to come back . . . and come back to stay."

the rights on the book. A second translation was issued by Altemus of Philadelphia in 1897. A bitter competitive war began in which prices were cut until one paper-bound edition wholesaled as low as 9 cents a copy.

Sienkiewicz was now famous in America and the very books which previously had not obtained a wide reading at last secured the attention which they had deserved all the time.

Business Group Petitions For Postoffice Site and Federal Building

The Carmel Business Association is going ahead rapidly with its plans for a new post office building. Yesterday morning, Mrs. James Regan set up a table in the post office and has been besieged by citizens who wish to sign the petition that the association has prepared, asking the postmaster general to order a survey of Carmel's post office situation and that a suitable site be acquired and a new building erected thereon. The association has not, to date, shown any preference as to the location of the building, leaving that entirely to postal authorities and the Treasury Department.

The following is the petition prepared by the association. Mrs. Regan will have two forms, one for private citizens, the other for local business men.

PETITION

To the Honorable the Postmaster General
Washington, D. C.

Sir:
The undersigned, residents of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, respectfully represent as follows:

1. That the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is an incorporated municipality of the State of California having an estimated population at the present time of three thousand (3000) persons, and the post office distributes mail to approximately five thousand (5000) persons.

2. That the city is one of the most rapidly growing communities in this state.

3. That there is no delivery system at the present time for the distribution of mail in connection with the local post office.

4. That the citizens of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea do not desire such mail deliveries except in the business section of the city.

5. That the present post office under lease to the Federal Government is inadequate and inconvenient.

6. That the citizens of this city are a unit in the desire that a post office building site be acquired and an adequate structure be erected thereon for the purpose of serving the local community efficiently in the receipt and distribution of mail and of other post office activities.

WHEREFORE, your petitioners respectfully pray that a survey of the local situation be ordered at once and that thereafter a proper and adequate site be acquired and a post office building constructed thereon at as early a date as practicable in order to relieve the present extremely unsatisfactory situation.

Car Menace Removed; Pine Trees Protected

Another block of Ocean avenue in the business district, that between Dolores and San Carlos, will soon have the same improved center parking strip as has been installed in two other blocks. Street Superintendent Askew and his men started work Monday morning, tearing out the old stones that have proved such a menace to cars and which have made it almost impossible for the line of pine trees down the center of the street to live.

Everything is ready for the low stone walls which will be put in. After the two parallel walls have been built, the space between will be filled with earth and planted with flowers and shrubs. The parking space on each side of the center strip will be scraped and oiled and markers will be put in to define each separate parking area.

Mountain Players To Stage Pageant Of Hawaii May 23

Highly embellished with authentic and colorful island costume, and with a musical setting of typical Hawaiian melodies, "Thunder in Paradise", a pageant of Hawaii, will be staged on Mount Tamalpais, Marin county, on Sunday, May 23, under the competent direction of Reginald Travers. The occasion marks the twenty-fourth annual production of the "Mountain Play." Carmelites will recall Garnet Holmes' many years' connection with this affair.

Once reached only by mountain trails, the play was then planned only for hikers. Present-day highways to the play site have added hundreds of motorists to the throng which assembles for the performance. Reduced automobile ferry tolls to the Marin shore will also serve to attract additional motorists.

The vehicle selected for production this year is an original play by C. J. Cook, descendant of the famed Captain Cook of history, and deals with Captain Cook's discovery of the Hawaiian Islands, in 1778.

Written especially for the Mountain, "Thunder in Paradise" achieves unusual effect by studied use of the natural setting, and Pohl Rock of the Mountain becomes Muano Loa, volcano of Hawaii.

*Guaranteed Milk is the official, legal name for a grade of milk established by the California Dept. of Agriculture—the highest grade established by the state. It is guaranteed by the state of California to have been produced, bottled and distributed under far more rigid standards than Grade A milk. Ask for leaflet explaining the difference.

NOW—Carmel and the Peninsula have GUARANTEED MILK—the highest grade of milk established by the state—incomparably the finest product of the dairy industry.

Only thirty-five ranches in California are licensed to produce Guaranteed* Milk. It is available in only about ten cities in the state.

Mission Guaranteed*Pasteurized Milk is also Guernsey milk . . . preferred throughout the United States for its finer flavor and richness, and which everywhere commands a premium price. The usual premium for Guernsey milk is 2c a quart, and Guaranteed* Milk commands a premium of from 2c to 3c a quart for its higher grade. ## The Bugs Will Get 'Em If You Don't Watch Out

Oak trees deserve close attention these days, says Everett Smith, Carmel's forester-mayor, when questioned regarding the oak-worm situation. The past winter's heavy rainfall has soaked the ground so thoroughly that the trees have been stimulated into unusually abundant foliage formation, with the result that the caterpillars are unable to catch up with the growth; however, as the spring growth period ceases and the worms increase in size, their work will become more apparent and consequently they become more difficult to control.

Mayor Smith's advice to the tree lover is to act early in stamping out the enemy. Spraying while the worms are small and while there is a maximum of foliage to hold the poison is the best method of attack; to wait until the worms are full grown and the trees stripped necessitates the use of more costly materials—and possibly by that time they have made a general nuisance of themselves by crawling on paths, lawns, fences, and into houses.

Large Crowd at San Clemente Round-up

Over 1000 happy spectators attended the sixth annual San Clemente ranch rodeo Sunday afternoon, 20 miles up Carmel valley near San Clemente dam, again proving that it is the most popular event of its kind in this part of the county. Henry Stowell, manager of the ranch, managed the rodeo, and under his expert guidance the events were run off smoothly and rapidly. While the rodeo began soon after noon, spectators began arriving early in the day, many bringing their lunches and making a day of it.

Joe Algrava of Carmel took first prize in the bronc riding contest, followed closely by Elmer Poulson of Salinas and Bob Nix of Pebble Beach.

The steer riding event saw Bob Nix the winner, Smokey Mahoney second and Bill Bokenhoogen third. Dick Robbins and El Silacci tied for first money in the single roping contest, splitting the cash prize, and Joe Violini was third.

Alvin Wells and Fred Allen of Santa Cruz took the team roping event, followed in second place by Bill McFarland and Al Skelton. Ted Englesman and D. Wilder came in third.

Englesman won the calf-roping competition, second place went to McFarland, and Skelton and Silacci tied for third.

Miss Winslow On Her Way Up

Continuing her fast-growing string of tennis victories, Barbara Winslow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Winslow and sister of Mrs. Randal Cockburn of Carmel, defeated Carolyn Babcock, national women's doubles champion, Saturday in the semi-finals of the Palm Springs third annual amateur invitational tennis tournament and then went on to win the women's division by defeating Dr. Ester Bartosh in the finals Sunday.

Miss Winslow plans to go east in the fall to play in the national championship matches. Southern California tennis experts have great hopes for her future, saying that it will be only a few years at the most before she becomes one of the country's top flight players.

They say you can't have everything—but this new Ford V-8 says differently.

At the lowest Ford price in years, you can have the roominess and comfort possible only with an engine that's extra short, a springbase that's extra long, drivers' seats that adjust two ways.

And—you ride where riding comfort is at its best—amidships, between the axles.

You get brakes that stop with tremendous power—at the gentlest of toe pressure.

You get a car that's easy to steer, easy to park. Yet the way it hugs the road and cradles you over rough spots reminds you of great big cars, with great big price tags.

You get modern lines and sparkling colors, and up-to-the-minute "little things," too—battery under the engine hood, starter button on the dash and parking brake below it, big luggage compartments on all sedans.

And anywhere you go, you know you'll find good service at costs so low they're famous the world around.

So no matter how hard you are to please or fit—no matter how much you expect for your money—here's the car to see FIRST. The QUALITY car in the low-price field.

Growth Periods In Carmel Population

The thirty-first anniversary of the San Francisco earthquake and fire, which occurred on April 18, calls to mind what happened to the then sparsely settled Carmel. In 1906 less than 200 people resided here.

Not all the people who were driven out of San Francisco went to the East Bay cities. Many of them came to Carmel. That was the real beginning of any considerable influx of population in Carmel. Many of those who arrived here at that time came with the idea of remaining only a short time. A considerable number of them remained permanently, acquired property and built substantial homes. Among them were painters, musicians, professional and business men. By 1912 the permanent population was 400.

The second period in notable increase in the number of those residing here came in 1912-18, when 100 more were added to the role of permanents. By 1916 a census of the village disclosed a permanent population of 500 men, women and children, a number sufficient to permit the town to become a city of the sixth class. In October, 1916, the town was incorporated.

In 1917 began the third and largest increase of residents and small business concerns. This third period of increase continued until 1930, after which, until 1935, things were at pretty much of a standstill. But the population in the incorporated area of Carmel was close to the 2500 mark. Judging from the extensive building operations in 1936 and continuing into this year, it is safe to assert that Carmel is right now in the midst of its fourth period of population increase.

Several unfailing indexes of the growth noted are convincing evidence. We have more of the following than ever before. Postal receipts, school attendance, water service, light service, telephones and business concerns.

In territory outside of the incorporated city of Carmel-by-the-Sea—Hatton Fields, Carmel Woods and the Point, there is additional population. Some day these sections will be added to Carmel, and there are those who predict that in a few years Carmel population will exceed that of Pacific Grove.

SATURDAY "DANGEROUS"

Saturday was the most dangerous day for driving in 1936, and Tuesday was the safest, according to information received by the public safety department of the National Automobile Club. In 1935, the fewest number of accidents occurred on Wednesday.

Abalone Leaguers Vie for Supremacy

By RONALD JOHNSON

While the attendance was small and a certain amount of scurrying about in search of players was necessary, the two Abalone league baseball games played Sunday on Carmel Woods diamond were well worth watching. As usual, the spirit of good clean fun prevailed in large quantities, although at times the umpires looked to be in danger from players who shouted the customary "we wuz robbed." Bystanders are still wondering about one big argument that had been going on for some time that was only halted when By Ford, who had just arrived at the diamond, walked out, pointed a commanding finger at the group and players and officials alike melted back to their positions. Things like that always make Abalone league games interesting.

In the first game, the Tigers went into the lead with a win over the Pilots, the score being 14 for the Tigers, 13 for the Pilots. The Tigers brought home six runners in the first inning to the Pilots' three. In the second period, the Tigers scored three more and the Pilots got none, but in the third the hard-fighting Pilots got the number of the Tiger pitcher and captain, Ivan Kelsey, and hit him for five runs in a row. The Tigers came through with one in the fourth, and four in the sixth, getting nothing in the final inning. Pilots scored once in the fourth and twice in the fifth and sixth, also getting nothing in the last period but the satisfaction of having almost tied the league leaders. Heavy hitters for the wingers were Butts, who made a field day of it and made the circuit four times, Kelsey, Alderson, Handley, Whitcomb and Lane. Pilots who made good were Kendall, Ricketts, Hull, Turner, Bardarson, Harber, Henry and Martin.

The second game saw the Shamrocks beat the Giants. When the dust had cleared away the scoreboard read six for the Shamrocks, five for the Giants, and no second half of the last inning was necessary as the Shamrocks were due to go to bat and they already were in the lead. The Shamrocks stayed ahead through the fifth, 5 to 3. In the sixth, the Giants scored two to bring their total to five and the Shamrocks brought in one to win the game with six runs. Shamrock leading batters were Ford, Rowntree, who entertained the customers with a prize-winning spill while galloping around on the green, Knight, Tremayne and L. Holtzhauser. Giant hitters were De Amaral, Townsend, Bain and Taylor.

Next Sunday, April 25, Pilots will meet Shamrocks and Giants will fight it out with the Tigers in what promise to be two fast games. The first game opens promptly at 1:30.

The schedule for the rest of the season follows:

- Sunday, May 2
1:30 Giants vs. Pilots.
2:30 Shamrocks vs. Tigers.
- Sunday, May 9
1:30 Tigers vs. Pilots.

Dear friends:

The least suggestion of show or display in any funeral service is in poor taste.

It has always been our thought that the funeral director should be as inconspicuous as possible. The many details involved should be looked after quietly, respectfully. And the family should be relieved of all responsibility.

That is our duty—our service.

Respectfully,

STRANGE but true is the fact that there still are some people who have no idea what Carmel is or where it is. We ran into another case the other day, and while we occasionally hear of such things, each new one comes as something of a shock.

This last one started when a gentleman new to Carmel came into the office to get a copy of The Pine Cone. (Wise man! He knew what to do when he wanted to learn something about Carmel). He came in, as we said, bought his Pine Cone (5 cents at all good news dealers) and then started to tell his little story.

It seems that he had driven into Monterey and had gone to a drug store to get some information. He sought out a clerk who was a fairly intelligent appearing man and put the question to him on a fair and square basis. No underhanded stuff, you understand, nothing hidden, he came right out, man to man, and said: "Could you tell me the easiest way to get to Carmel?"

Well, being in Monterey, you might have expected the clerk to come through with some quaint remarks or horribly witty bit of repartee such as: "Sure. Go crazy and they'll take you there." did no such thing. He hauled out his mask expressing blankness, clapped it on his face and said: "Carmel. What is Carmel?"

If the visitor had been a local real estate agent, that last question would have been the signal for a concerted attack upon the individual. One knows better after having lived here for any length of time. But the visitor was a quiet man with nothing to sell and he satisfied himself by looking aghast. He was a persevering sort of person and went ahead with his questioning. All through their conversation the clerk professed absolute ignorance of Carmel's existence, and the stranger who came in for information ended up by trying to tell the clerk what little he had heard of the place. Imagine that in what is supposed to be one of the leading drug stores in Monterey! Either that clerk was so dumb that he ought not be working in a drug store or he was deliberately trying to be nasty, in which case he still ought not be working in a drug store. Only four miles from Carmel and he had never heard of it! Really, that man ought to be analyzed. We feel quite sure that he has to have someone tell him the name of the street he lives on when he goes home at night—if he remembers to go home. Never heard of Carmel. Phooey!

WHAT with many people we know leaving on vacations and worrying about the business they have left behind, we thought of something the other day that might solve once and for all the problem of how not to worry while away on a vacation. Of course there are professional worriers who worry while you go blithely through life, but we think our idea is even better. Why not have professional vacationists? You know, for a nominal sum they would go on your vacation for you and you could stay home and work and have no cause to worry. Now isn't that a wow of an idea? Plan your trip, think of every place you'd like to visit, make all the preparations, and then, at the last minute, send a substitute. While you stay home, happy in the knowledge that the business is in good hands, he goes on your vacation and worries for you. Then, when the vacation is over, back he comes to tell you all about it, leaving out, of course, all the bad spots, the flat tires, the long waits and everything else that might have caused you discomfort if you had gone yourself. Sounds pretty nice, doesn't it? But wait a minute. We just had a thought. If you do that, you have to go right on working, don't you? And who wants to work during their vacation time? While we hate to admit it, there seems to be a slight snag here in this otherwise perfect plan. But don't fret, we'll work it out and let you know the result before too many weeks have passed. Perhaps by the time you are ready to take your vacation we will have it perfected and you, too, will be able to take advantage of the latest and best in vacation service.

THIS really happened. We don't know why, but it did. Inquiring Reporter: How are you today, Mr. Rowntree? Mr. Rowntree: Tired, very tired. I. R.: Why don't you go away for awhile? Mr. Rowntree: What's the use? There are people everywhere. I. R.: Oh! And here we are at the end. Is it possible that we are alone, or do our eyes deceive us?

WHILE driving up Ocean avenue the other day, we found ourselves behind a large car of ancient vintage but of a very fine make. It was one of those old things in which the steering wheel is situated on the right side instead of the left. Over the door on the drivers side was hooked an elbow, encased in the sleeve of a fur coat. That was all we could see of the occupants.

Suddenly, from the left side, an arm, clad in a fur sleeve, shot out to indicate a left turn, and the ancient vehicle turned into one of the parking spaces in the center of Ocean avenue. We looked, we stared, and we gaped.

How, in the name of all that is sacred in the automobile world, had the driver, without removing her arm from the door on the right, reached across the great width of the huge car and put the full length of her other arm out the opposite side? The thing was incredible! We also parked, and waited for things to happen, fully expecting to see something in the way of a contortionist or rubber lady from the circus. Imagine our surprise, when both doors opened and two women stepped out—each one dressed in a fur coat. The

Gaiety Theme of Spring Styles

CAPT. Molyneux's recent broadcast from Paris gave us a lively picture of what the fashions have in store for us this spring. Gaiety will be the theme, he promises, and gaiety will certainly be reflected in his own forthcoming collection.

According to Capt. Molyneux there is a reaction from black, so much stressed in the last two collections, and color will be rampant—bright, clear colors and pastels for clothes of all types. He feels this may be credited to the men, who certainly do not look upon black as being feminine or alluring. And speaking of men, he added that neither does the recent adherence to close, high necklines strike an appealing note. The decolletage for evening dresses this spring will be a true décolletage, feminine and decorative, and there will be flowers more than ever to adorn them.

He is using rich fabrics of all kinds—brocades and lustrous satins, and for the younger set airy laces, nets and tulle in the colors in which these sheers are most effective. One dress in the Molyneux spring collection will have 13 yards of tulle in the skirt alone, which presents to the mind's eye a vision of loveliness on the dance floor.

In the question and answer dialogue during the broadcast, Molyneux expressed the conviction that Paris will continue to be, as it has been in the past, the style center of the world and the inspiration for all fashions. The radio talk by Molyneux was broadcast from Paris over a national hook-up here so that women all over the country had a chance at first hand to hear what they will be accepting soon.

Collective Bargaining Explained By Expert

President of the Carmel League of Women Voters for the coming year is Miss Lydia Weld, who was unanimously elected at the league's business meeting held Friday morning at Pine Inn. Miss Weld, who replaces Mrs. Carl L. Voss, the retiring president, has been a member of the league for many years and is particularly well qualified for the position.

Other officers elected at the meeting were Mrs. John H. Sandholt of Monterey, first vice-president; Miss Orre Hazeltine of Carmel Valley, second vice-president; Mrs. B. D. Marx Green of Monterey, treasurer; Mrs. Lee O. Kellogg of Carmel, corresponding secretary. Directors elected were Mrs. Carl Voss of Salinas, Mrs. Mast Wolfson of Monterey, Miss Alice Work of Pacific Grove and Mrs. David S. Ball of Carmel. Miss Lorena C. Ray of Carmel Highlands was elected director at large.

Further business at the meeting was the reading by Mrs. Russell Scott of the league's revised constitution, which was adopted.

Following the business meeting, which began at 10:30, a talk, "What Is Collective Bargaining?" was given by Dr. Paul Eliel, professor in the graduate business school at Stanford University. Dr. Eliel spoke with the authority of one long known as an experienced and fair negotiator, and his talk dealt impartially with both the employers' and workers' side of the question. Dr. Eliel believes that there are many definitions of the term but that collective bargaining is "recognition of the parity of status of employer and employee." He said that employees have a definite responsibility now that they have obtained the right to bargain collectively and that there is an increasing tendency for the workers to realize this.

While a group of men may sit around a table and talk things over, discussion is not the soul of collective bargaining as long as employers reserve the right to accept or reject any subject brought up for discussion. When parity of status is established, he told the group, it means that employers and employees are meeting and bargaining as equals and that neither side looks down on the other either because of their power or their wealth. Many times, workers feel that they have not been dealt with as equals, and when they get into power as the result of a strike, they take advantage of that power and strain relations even more by their subsequent dealings with their employers.

Successful collective bargaining depends on a number of elements, Dr. Eliel explained. Some of the more important elements are recognition of unions—whether they be company unions or outside organizations, the right of both parties to accept and reject, parity of status of the parties bargaining, and a majority of the workers must decide who is to represent them. One of the most common objections of workers is that often they are not given a written agreement. Many of the causes of complaint have been removed by the Wagner act, also known as the national labor relations act, under which the labor relations board hears all complaints and acts upon such things as refusal to bargain, discrimination, several unions fighting for recognition and many other things.

Del Monte Race Track Is Okayed

The Del Monte mile race track is in excellent shape and is one of the best racing strips in the country.

This was the verdict yesterday of Judge Floyd McKenney, noted horse racing official, who has been appointed steward for the Del Monte meeting to be held May 31 to June 5.

Judge McKenney came down from San Francisco where he served as presiding steward at the recent Tanforan meeting and was taken on a tour of inspection by Henry P. Russell, executive director of the Monterey County Racing Association.

In discussing the prospects for the season at the Monterey County course, Judge McKenney predicted that it would be a record-breaking meeting. He pointed out that racing has made tremendous gains since the sport was last held at Del Monte in 1932 and that the Santa Anita meet showed definitely that California had regained its leadership on the turf.

Many of the better horses which competed at Santa Anita last winter will be seen under colors at Del Monte, as well as leading horses at Tanforan and Bay Meadows.

Don Roberto, gargantuan four-year-old, owned by Mrs. William P. Roth, San Francisco sportsman, will be campaigned at Del Monte, according to word brought by Judge McKenney. Don Roberto finished sixth in the Santa Anita Handicap, defeating 12 of the best thoroughbreds in American training. Taking his dust were such stars as Red Rain, Mr. Bones, Grand Manitu and others.

Don Roberto will be pointed especially for the $1000 handicap which closes the Del Monte season June 5.

Although stall space for the 400 thoroughbreds who will compete at Del Monte has not yet been assigned, owners of leading stables in California have already signified their intention of being represented.

Judge McKenney, who has served as presiding steward at past Del Monte meets, is noted on the turf for his strict control over the racing and the jockeys who ride under him. His presence in the stewards' stand at Del Monte will insure sport on the highest possible plane.

During the course of Tuesday afternoon of this week 23 out-of-state cars, including two from Canada and one from Mexico, were parked on Ocean avenue. So what?

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"I heard a voice from heaven saying unto me, Write, Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labours; and their works do follow them." These words from Revelation comprise the Golden Text to be used Sunday, April 25, in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be "Probation after Death." Included among the Scriptural selections will be: "If in this life only we have hope in Christ, we are of all men most miserable. But now is Christ risen from the dead, and become the firstfruits of them that slept. . . . For he must reign, till he hath put all enemies under his feet. The last enemy that shall be destroyed is death" (I. Cor. 15: 19, 20, 25, 26).

The following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, will also be included: "As death findeth mortal man, so shall he be after death, until probation and growth shall effect the needed change" (p. 291).

Superb Reading of "Prelude to Exile"

By LEANDER JAMES CROWE

Saturday night at the Golden Bough Green Room, before an audience that filled every available seat, two people stood on that tiny stage and made magic. They were Baldwin McGaw and Emma Knox.

Without tricks of lighting, no properties, and an absence of sets, these two young people, simply and becomingly attired in costumes of the Nineteenth Century, revived an almost lost art—the art of reading aloud.

The occasion was the fifth of the McGaw-Knox play-reading series sponsored by Miss Laura A. Dierssen. The play was William McNally's "Prelude to Exile", based on incidents of the life of Richard Wagner. It is a good play—an amusing, and, at times, a highly dramatic one. To this reviewer at least, the rare quality of Saturday night's experience was the unusual and intelligent manner in which the play was presented.

To begin with Mr. McGaw told briefly of its production by the Theatre Guild in New York this past season; of its moderate success, and of the splendid performance given by Miss Eva LeGallienne in the role of Mathilde Wesendonck, the wife of Wagner's patron and with whom Wagner was in love when he wrote "Tristan and Isolde". Next he described the setting of the play—a room in the villa at Zurich owned by Otto Wesendonck. Finally he and Miss Knox began to read the play, and from that point, the success of the evening was up to the author and the audience.

If the author's lines struck no chords in the imaginations of the listeners that was not a McGaw-Knox responsibility. They presented the play charmingly and flawlessly. They moved the characters easily on and off the stage, and they read the lines with beautiful, though never moving, voices. They characterized

Physicians to Meet Here Next Month

The 66th annual session of the California Medical Association will be held at the Hotel Del Monte, May 2-6. To date more than 1400 reservations have been made with Monterey peninsula hotels. This is indicative of a large attendance registration.

The out-of-state invited guests speakers are:

William C. Woodward, M. D., LL.B., director of legal medicine and legislation of the American Medical Association, Chicago.

Jesse G. M. Bullowa, M. D., clinical professor of medicine, New York University College of Medicine, New York.

Cyrus C. Sturgis, M. D., professor internal medicine, University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Norman F. Miller, M. D., professor Obstetrics & Gynecology, University of Michigan Medical School, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Some 148 scientific addresses and papers will be presented at section meetings. In the section on exhibits, there will be 48 scientific and 37 commercial exhibits.

On Tuesday evening, May 4, there will be held the annual dinner and reception honoring Doctor E. M. Pallette, Los Angeles, president of the California Medical Association. On that evening also Doctor Howard Morrow of San Francisco will be inducted in the office of president for the coming year.

Doctor W. W. Roblee of Riverside, as speaker, will preside over the House of Delegates, the legislative body of the Association.

The association closes its fiscal year with a membership of over 5800, representing 83 per cent of the licensed physicians and surgeons of the state.

just enough to differentiate between the various persons in the play, but wisely refrained from trying to actually play the parts. They brought out most subtly the author's humor, and shared with the hearers their enjoyment of it, content always to allow the honor be his and taking no credit to themselves for clarifying his intention.

On May 15, Mr. McGaw and Miss Knox are returning to Carmel to present Helen Jeromes adaptation of Charlotte Brontes "Jane Eyre"—an event that no drama lover will wish to miss.

It is a relief to find two artists who never forget that "The play's the thing."

SALUTA

"Backward, turn backward,
 Oh time in its flight."

After 11 years I find myself again in the seat of the reflector or moulder of public opinion. Again I am directing (for a very brief period), the editorial business of The Pine Cone.

It is quite natural, you will agree, that my thoughts, in the position in which I find myself, should be definitely retrospective.

Such being the case, I am frank to say that my reflections are more concerned with the first 11 years (1915-1926) of The Pine Cone, when I was its owner and editor, than during the last 11 years (1926-1937), during which the paper has been in other and perhaps more competent hands.

Those first 11 years of mine were strenuous, at times panicky and uncertain, but provocative of self-discipline and caution. The cultural and financial success of The Pine Cone then and since, must not, however, be attributed to one man. I had valuable and influential assistance from many. They advised, encouraged, criticized and praised me. Let me set down the names of the men and women who aided in the establishment and maintenance of Carmel's first newspaper: James F. Devendorf, Frank H. Powers, George F. Beardsley, Mrs. Ella Reid Harrison, Alfred P. Fraser. All of the above mentioned have passed on. Of those still alive who were helpful there are Miss Emma Williams, Herbert Heron, Fred Bechdolt, Daisy Bostick, Louis S. Slevin and others.

I have often been asked, "Why did you sell The Pine Cone?" There are two answers. First, that the price offered was too attractive to refuse; second, that in 1926 I had political ambitions. I have often wished that I had not disposed of what some wags called the "Kine Pone", "The Sine Stone", and the "Village Rag".

As for these last 11 years of this publication, under the ownership of Messrs. Easton, Griffin, Newberry, Cockburn and Miller, I have not always been in accord with their editorial policy, but, generally speaking, the ideals which I had for the enterprise have been fairly well maintained.

I am grateful for this opportunity to edit this issue of The Pine Cone.

JUNIPERO STREET IMPROVEMENT

It would seem that while this discussion (in the newspapers) regarding the improvement of Junipero street is going on that the property owners on that thoroughfare should be consulted. What they want to know is how the project is to be financed—by a city bond issue or by one assessment district? Or, perhaps, being a hundred-foot street and a proposed main highway to divert the traffic from San Carlos avenue, the cost may be assumed by the county or state. Vital questions, these, to small property-owners.

Another thing. The homeowners along the line of improvement want to know something and say something about the type of improvement. Is it to be a one-road street with traffic proceeding north and south, or will there be two one-way lanes, with center parking. The advantages and disadvantages of both types should be set forth by engineers and thoroughly discussed by those interested.

There should be no hasty or half-baked action in this proposed and perhaps desirable enterprise.

Two American institutions that seem to endure are the seventh-inning stretch and the brass rail.

Father, to his baseball-wise son: "Jimmy, what major league club is referred to as 'The Nine Old Men?'"

*GROWING OLD

They say I am growing old,
 I've heard them tell it times untold
 In language plain and bold,
 But I'm not growing old!
 This frail old shell in which I dwell
 Is growing old I know full well,
 But I am not the shell.
 What if my hair is turning gray,
 Gray hairs are honorable, they say,
 What if my eyesight's growing dim,
 I still can see to follow Him
 Who sacrificed His life for me
 Upon the Cross of Calvary,
 What should I care if time's old plough
 Has left its furrows on my brow.
 Another house not made with hands
 Awaits me in the Glory Land.
 What though I falter in my walk,
 What though my tongue refuse to talk,
 I still can tread the narrow way,
 I still can watch and praise and pray;
 My hearing may not be as keen
 As in the past it may have been;
 Still I can hear my Saviour say,
 In whisper soft, "This is the way."
 The outward man, do what I can
 To lengthen out his life's short span
 Shall perish and return to dust
 As everything in nature must.
 The inward man the scriptures say
 Is growing stronger every day.
 Then how can I be growing old
 When safe within my Saviour's fold,
 Ere long my soul shall fly away,
 And leave this tenement of clay.
 This robe of flesh I'll drop, and rise
 To seize the everlasting prize.
 I'll meet you on the streets of gold
 And prove that I'm not growing old!

*—(Editor's Note: A long time ago I found this poem in an obscure magazine. It bore no author's name. Last September it was published in the Monterey Elks "Contact", and caused wide comment.—W. L. O.)

PUBLIC SCHOOLS WEEK

It is the hope of every one that the world of tomorrow will be a better world—that there will be less of storm and stress and suffering, and more of peace and good will and happiness.

But where can men place this hope, ever thwarted by the failings and weaknesses of the human race? There is only one answer. That place is the schools. For the future of humankind is shaped in the schools, and if ever the eternal problems are solved, it will be only because the schools have made better men of future generations than we ourselves have been.

Next week is Public Schools Week in California. Adults of today, plodding on throughout the year unaware of the future's birth, are given this week to be made aware, to visit the schools and see and hear of their progress.

The idea of holding the "week" was born in California in 1920, when post-war indifference toward education was threatening to bog down the whole system. So successful was this observance in arousing new interest, that the nation later followed California's example, setting up Education Week.

California still leads in the matter of education. Our schools are second to none anywhere. To keep them that way, we must understand and share the problems in the work of building better men for the world of tomorrow.

Go around to Sunset school next week! After seeing the hope and enthusiasm of the youngsters you will come away with reawakened faith in the future, and, like as not, in yourself as well.

THE MORE THE MERRIER—MAYBE

"Don't you think it is asking too much to expect Carmel, a community of 2500 men, women and children, to support three weekly publications?"

The above query in one form or another is frequently heard. The reply to which is usually a shrug and a smile, which means "Yes!"

However, the writer believes the reply is not consistent. There is just as much justification for three newspapers in Carmel as there is for 20 commercial eating places, seven groceries, four butcher shops, four drug stores, etc.

The newspaper reader is not obliged to subscribe for or to purchase all three or any of the publications any more than he is obliged to eat in the 20 restaurants.

It is not a matter for the reading public to be concerned about. Let the publishers and the much-solicited advertisers do the worrying. If they can make a living and pay their help, well and good. If they cannot, they will not be long in business.

The pioneer 22-year-old Pine Cone will continue to be published.

COSTLY SCHEME NOT NEEDED

The action of the trustees of the Sunset School in discouraging the proposed underpass on San Carlos avenue is to be commended. For the very good reason that this costly proposal is not necessary. It seems to me that the traffic hazards to school children on San Carlos avenue could be materially lessened in another way. Why not make San Carlos avenue a one-way street for south travel from Ocean avenue to Thirteenth street, and Mission street for north travel between the same streets.

This regulation of traffic could remain in effect until the completion of the Junipero street improvement.

How things do change. We Americans used to stand up for our rights. Now we sit down. And how.

aces of Sport", will be such persons as the only girl coxswain of a rowing crew in America, "Mysterious" Montague, the southern California gentleman who has upset the golfing world by winning over expert golfers while using such odd clubs as baseball bats, rakes and hoes; Glenn Cunningham, the famous track star, and many others whose achievements in the sport world have brought them fame. Many of the scenes will be re-enacted here in Carmel and a number of local residents will appear in the finished films.

In the first short, Robert Edgren, author of the series, will be introduced to the movie audiences. Few people, even Mr. Edgren's closest friends, realize what an adventurous and exciting life he has led. He was one of the first cameramen ever to take pictures of early events and the first film will show some of his prize pictures, including such things as the first pictures of a boxing match ever to be made—the famous Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight at Carson City, Nev., in 1897, one of the first airplane flights, and the second animated cartoon made. An interesting and amusing side of Mr. Edgren's life has been brought to notice recently. He was entirely responsible for a bill, passed by the California legislature many years ago, making it legal to shoot cartoonists on sight. The bill passed both houses of the legislature, but was vetoed by the governor.

The process of re-enacting famous sport happenings is the second of its kind, the first being the already famous "March of Time". According to Mr. Bare, the company "will be to the sportsreel what the March of Time is to the newsreel." The entire idea is a new one and there is no reason why it should not succeed. The "Miracles of Sports" films will be produced each month for the next year, the films being released through one of the eight major distributing companies, according to Mr. Bare.

Smallpox was known as early as 1200 B. C., as shown from eruptions on skins of Egyptian mummies.

ELLA REID HARRISON

A Tribute

I can see her now as I first knew her twenty-five years ago. A vigorous, purposeful woman; dominating, not domineering; sincere, forceful, convincing. She would give ear to others, but once having determined upon a course of action, she was adamant.

At that first meeting I saw a lady in her early sixties. She carried her now-white head proudly. She looked out of keen, penetrating blue eyes; her lips were set and determined. She gave the impression of born culture, of intimacy with the arts and devotion to the finer things of life.

Her charities covered a wide field. No matter where she happened to be—in New York, in Washington, in San Francisco, in Carmel, in Paris—she went about doing good. But she performed her deeds of kindness in her own way. Sentiment alone did not sway her. If what was proposed was not practical or genuine, it had no place in her category of philanthropy.

Art treasures and rare volumes from all the world were hers. In the acquirement of these, so exact was her knowledge of values, artistic and material, that she was never at the mercy of the exploiters of the false. She knew books, she knew art, she knew human beings. This knowledge was highly essential to her life's activities.

The idea of establishing the library in Carmel did not come to her after the death of her husband. It had been decided upon years before, during the period when Supreme Court Justice Ralph Chandler Harrison was a trustee of the San Francisco Free Public Library. To the duties of this position he gave in a large measure of his time, his energy, and his means. He loved the work. What more appropriate, then, than a library to his memory. And so Carmel has for all time the Ralph Chandler Harrison Memorial Library.

The library, with its books, its paintings, its etchings, its very building, because of the manner in which it was brought into being, is a monument not only to him whom it memorializes, but to Ella Reid Harrison as well.—W. L. O.

Tipica Sit-Down Strike Is Ended

While a sit-down strike may be a good rest cure, it avails the sit downer nothing but the satisfaction of having done that which he probably would be most happy at doing.

This was proved conclusively Tuesday when the striking Tipica orchestra members of the Federal music project here gave the project headquarters back to the people after having rested in the back room since April 12. Only nine of the project's 25 members went out on strike, but all activity in the building was ceased until the inevitable end came.

The strikers left Tuesday afternoon after having made their home in the project building for the last eight days, eating food brought to them by members of the "Workers Alliance Local No. 75", parading in front of the building with signs notifying the public of their complaints and demands, and amusing passersby no end. The remaining 16 members of the music project stayed on the job until it became impossible for them to practice, as the Tipica strikers not only sat in the back room but vented their spleen on their various instruments at all hours of the day.

In all, nine demands were made by the strikers, but it was to no avail. They have been assigned to other projects, the strike not having been taken seriously enough to cause their discharge from the relief rolls. Each and every one of the striking musicians has been offered the opportunity to be reinstated if he can meet the requirements of the music project, but so far, none have taken advantage of this offer. It would be almost impossible for them to do so because of the fact that not one of the Tipica orchestra members is able to read music. None of them have applied for reinstatement, all are sure of jobs in some other section of the project. Dene Denney, head of the local music project, and the person against whom the strikers directed a blast in the form of a demand that she be removed, was responsible for their getting the jobs in the first place.

Miss Denny and members of the other two sections of the local project are back at work, having moved into the building Wednesday morning. She and the concert orchestra, the swing band and the music librarians are hard at work preparing for National Music Week, to be held from March 2 to 9. No definite plans have yet been made for this event, but the fact remains certain that members of these other sections of the music project will neither lie down nor sit down on the job.

FIRE DEPT. ANSWERS CALL

The fire department was called out Wednesday night at 11:45 to put out a fire in the La Playa annex at Camino Real and Eighth. The fire was started by an electric iron, spread to a mattress and scorched the walls of a bedroom, but the only damage done to the building was that caused by water.

High School Girls In Many Activities

Tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock the Watsonville tennis team will be at the Monterey high school courts to play Monterey high's tennis team. The Watsonville team rates very high in the C. C. A. L. and will no doubt offer strong opposition in spite of the fact that Monterey beat them once this season in a practice game. As usual the Monterey team will be taken from the eight highest on the tennis ladder. At present they are Spencer Kern, Thomas Gee, Ted Yates, George Wishart, Ted Marble, John Clague, Warren Johnson and Markham Johnson.

Ten girls from the Junior and Senior classes were nominated as candidates eligible to contend to represent Monterey at the annual Salinas Rodeo to be held in July.

The girl chosen in final elimination by the judges will also have an opportunity to compete for the "Outdoor Girl of California" title. The winner of the title and her mother, as chaperone, will be entitled to a trip to Mexico with all expenses paid. The candidates are: Peggy Mathiot, Adrienne Girard, Juanita Flagg, Pat Coblenz, Yvonne Roumiguere, Dorotha Dawson, Mabel De Rose, Betty Beaumont, Camille Burnham and Geraldine Kerner.

Valona Brewer will give an informal talk on children and music, at the Lial Studios in Monterey on Wednesday, April 28 at 4 o'clock. Several

Ancient Art In Modern Setting

Much interest has been shown by Peninsula folk in the Weavers' Corner at Holman's Department Store in Pacific Grove, where looms may be rented at a nominal sum per week and free instruction obtained.

Holman's has just introduced this new department which will be in charge of Mrs. Marion Sylvester and where anyone may design and weave themselves suits, scarfs, mufflers, table covers and countless other items.

Mr. Rundstrum of Rundstrum Looms, Los Angeles, will be at the department all week to explain the art and demonstrate its usefulness.

"Weaving is an excellent medium for expression," according to Mr. Rundstrum, "there is a rhythm and cadence to weaving that inspires restful thinking, and technically the craft is simple to one who has ordinary powers of coordination."

Holman's Department Store cordially invites everyone to visit Weavers' Corner on the second floor.

of Mrs. Brewer's younger students will take part in the program.

FOR Scotty Creager, who is leaving today for Honolulu, and Mr. and Mrs. James Glaser of Glencoe, Illinois, who left yesterday for their home after spending some time at Del Monte. Mrs. Lucy Wyckoff was hostess Monday night at a suki-yaki dinner given at Marsh's oriental store in Monterey. Friends present to wish the travelers a happy trip were Major and Mrs. Chester A. Shephard, Mrs. Arthur Bowles Cahill, Miss Katharine Hays, Mrs. Lucy Wyckoff, Mrs. Milo Dibble, Mr. Damo Vuleitch, Mr. Leland Ross and Mr. Willard John. After the dinner, which was served in the Japanese garden room, the entire party attended the theater, seeing "Walkie"

Wedding" and giving Scotty Creager a preview of the land he is about to visit for the first time. The group then returned to Marsh's and enjoyed several hours of dancing.

After living in Carmel for eight months, Scotty is leaving today for San Francisco. He will board the Malolo tomorrow and arrive in Honolulu in time for the Lei Day celebration, rejoining Don Blanding, who flew over several weeks ago. Don and Scotty will stay in the Islands until October, when they will return to launch Don's latest book. Palmer Beaudette will accompany Scotty to Honolulu but will return shortly, possibly flying on a Pan American clipper ship.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Abbott in their home on Casanova street during the last week have been W. T. Dumbleton, well known consulting engineer of Seattle, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Paddon of New York. Mr. Paddon is an official of a large corporation in the eastern city.

For their mother, Mrs. Clark, Kelly and Nancy Clark invited a number of friends in to tea Tuesday afternoon to congratulate Mrs. Clark on her eighty-third birthday. Mrs. Clark received the guests in a room full of flowers, and a large number of well wishers dropped in through the afternoon to pay their respects. So many friends came and went that a list of the names would be impossible, but a partial list would include Mr. and Mrs. P. A. McCreery, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Bacher and Zonie Claypool.

In honor of Charles K. Tuttle of Pacific Grove, who has been in the drug business for 50 years in the same location, 28 peninsula druggists and their wives attended a dinner given at Forest Hill hotel in Pacific Grove Sunday night. Mr. Tuttle has been an active figure in activities of the state pharmaceutical society for many years and is the dean of druggists on the peninsula. Carmelites attending the affair were Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Staniford and J. W. Claywell.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butterfield will be hosts at an open house tomorrow afternoon and evening in the Little Gallery on Dolores street. The Little Gallery has been remodeled and a new display window has been put in on the north side, completely changing the former arrangement of the shop. Mr. and Mrs. Butterfield have invited all their friends and acquaintances to come in and enjoy tea, which will be served from 4 to 6 in the afternoon and 7 to 9 in the evening. A first showing of many new things direct from New York will be given.

Bob Smith returned to Carmel Monday after going to Beverly Hills Friday to attend the wedding of Jeanne Havens-Montague, for many years a resident of Pebble Beach, and Charles Miller III of New York. Following the wedding, which took place Friday, Mr. and Mrs. Miller left for a trip around the world. Although Bob flew down from Salinas, he drove back with another Carmelite, John Ward, who also was present at the wedding.

A new home in the Mission tract is now being built by Hugh Comstock for Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Seifert, Jr. The new home is to be of the early California type, finished with adobe veneer, and equipped with an air conditioning plant. For the last two years, Mr. and Mrs. Seifert have rented a house on the Point, visiting here occasionally, but now they are moving to Carmel from Los Angeles and intend to make their home here. Mr. Seifert is engaged in the lettuce business in Salinas.

Although Dorothy Nixon's thirteenth birthday fell on Monday, Dorothy celebrated it Sunday by inviting a group of her friends to join her in a day of fun. Those who helped Dorothy celebrate the great occasion were Adeline Guth, Leona Ramsey, Elise Beaton and Frances Walters. The group first played games at the Nixon home and then left for Pacific Grove beach. They ate lunch on the beach and spent the day swimming in the pool and playing on the beach.

Postmaster Irene Cator is away from the office for two weeks, owing to ill health. J. L. Nye is in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Jackson, for several years residents of Carmel, spent a few days here this week. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson are now living in La Jolla.

On April 1 last the Ralph Chandler Harrison Memorial Library completed its ninth year of service to the Carmel public. Note of this fact is what inspired the tribute to Ella Reid Harrison, printed on another page of this issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hayward of Hollywood, Mrs. LeRoy Newport of Hanford, Lieut. J. Buckner of Philadelphia and Mrs. Mabel Gifford of San Francisco were last week house guests of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Fitch in Carmel Woods.

The Monterey Peninsula Lodge of Elks, with a membership of 350, 25 of whom reside in Carmel, makes two important announcements. On Friday, May 12, a dinner dance for members and their ladies will be held in the Hotel San Carlos. On Sunday, May 9, a membership golf tournament takes place on the Del Monte links.

The Carmel Missionary Society will meet at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at All Saints church. Miss Ena Hoag, Mrs. J. Richardson Lucas and Miss Flora Gifford will speak on negro education in America.

The Girl Scout house Tuesday night was the scene of a dinner given by the Girl Scout Council of Monterey peninsula for troop leaders from all parts of the area. The dinner was given as a means of getting the troop leaders together and making them acquainted. Mrs. R. R. Wallace was in charge of the meeting.

Brownies Entertain Their Elders

A large and appreciative group of parents and friends gathered at the Girl Scout house last Saturday afternoon and gladdened the hearts of Brownies, for whose benefit the party was given, and the hostesses and Brownie leaders by their appreciation of the tea and entertainment given for them.

Tea was served from 3 o'clock to 5, with Mrs. R. R. Wallace and Mrs. Jean Henry Large pouring. A program was provided by a group of Brownies who recited the Brownie promise and sang their famous Smile Song. The girls in the group were Barbara Moriarty, Nancy Bragg, Sue Dekker, Molly Osgood, Joan Carr, Diane Tait, Elizabeth Hollister, Constance David and Jeannie Sayers. The program was introduced and explained by Mrs. Ernest F. Morehouse, who was introduced by Miss Mary Ackroyd, regional director and hostess.

Hostesses for the popular affair were Mrs. Talbert Josselyn, chairman; Mrs. Orley Holm, Mrs. William Dekker, Mrs. Webster Street, Mrs. George Moriarty, Mrs. Ruth Flynn and Mrs. Howard Walters. Brownie leaders in attendance were Mrs. Ernest F. Morehouse, Mrs. Fred Mylar and Mrs. Edward David, assisted by four little Brownies in the persons of Edith Wright, Barbara Josselyn, Barbara Timmons and Joan Dekker.

All 41 Brownies and their leaders are appreciative of the large number of peninsula residents that attended their tea and wish to thank them for the interest they manifested in the two Brownie troops.

John Kenneth Turner and his wife, Adrianna Spadoni, were Carmel visitors for a few days this week. They reside in San Francisco. After a 15-months stay in Washington, D. C., they are exceedingly glad to be back in their native California.

Civic Matters Aired At Council Meeting

An adjourned regular meeting of Carmel city council was held Wednesday night with a small audience in attendance and two councilmen absent.

As usual, a quantity of mail was opened and read. Mrs. Lottie Fratley's request that a pine tree limb in front of her house be cut was turned over to the street department; the city attorney was told to inform Mrs. Mary A. Goold that the fire siren atop the new firehouse is a necessary governmental function. Mrs. Goold having protested that the siren is turned directly toward her apartment; C. E. Hathaway's request that a tree be removed was referred to the council as a whole.

A $5 check from Carl's auto service was received, accompanied by the request that a tree at the corner of Sixth and Mission be removed. The tree was removed several days ago to make room for pavement and sidewalks. Permission was also given the auto service to install curbs and gutters on the same corner.

Edward Kuster requested by mail that he be allowed to stage a production in the Forest Theater this summer. This started a long talk, out of which came the idea of creating a commission of parks and playgrounds. The council is already preparing a list of names, five of which will probably be selected.

Two other matters took up much time—the discussion of when is a bar not a restaurant occupying the city fathers first, following by a discussion of the rule prohibiting building erection within 15 feet of the property line. The city attorney will draw up sample ordinances on both subjects and present them at the next meeting.

Capt. Shelburn Robison, president of the business association, was the last to appear on the program, presenting to the council the petition being circulated by the association requesting that the postmaster general do something about getting a new post office for Carmel. He asked the council to pass a resolution stating that it was in favor of the petition, a thing it most probably will do when he presents it, made up as a resolution, at the next meeting.

Woman's Club Book Section Holds Meeting

At the book section of the Carmel Woman's Club Wednesday morning, Mrs. H. S. Nye, in reviewing "Something of Myself", the autobiography which Rudyard Kipling wrote at the age of 70, gave a subtle comparison of the ease with which anyone can obtain education in this present day and the general difficulty encountered at the time of Kipling's youth. Her casual remark that even the strikers sat down was quite opportune.

His school, outside of elementary training to the age of 16, was the school of hard knocks, but we, with Kipling, can rejoice that these difficulties added to the stature of a man and gave, later, the vivid color of reality to his works. In the autobiography, he clearly points out various incidents into his works and gave them clean-cut realism.

Unable to play politics and naturally stating things as he saw them, his career as a newspaper man came to an abrupt end. This speaking and writing of the truth was a sincere obsession with Kipling who never realized that the majority of people did not like to hear it about themselves. He enjoyed criticism and benefited from it, considering it another lesson to be learned in the school of hard knocks. The events of his life were handed to him, as he says, like cards in a game and more often than not were difficult ones to make count.

Kipling tells of reading "All In a Garden Fair" by Walter Besant, at the termination of his early newspaper activities and of the guiding hand it was to him. In seeming gratitude, he gives a final chapter, "Tools of the Trade."

This book is Kipling at his best—brief, strong and with an evident zest for life which is in all his works because it was in the man himself, a man with a seeing eye and the courage to tell what he saw.

Mrs. Nye finished her review with a few selections from Kipling's works, notably "The Rival" and "Christmas in India."

LEILA MATHER.

The Garden Section of the Carmel Woman's Club held their second April meeting the fifteenth at the home of Mrs. John Stafford Mather. Mrs. E. J. Sherwin, chairman of the group, read some interesting articles on azaleas, and a general discussion of the present national flower shows was held. The next meeting will be at Miss Ann Grant's in Hatton Fields, May 4.

The fire department was called last Saturday night to answer a false alarm from the vicinity of Carmelo and Seventh. The source of the call has not yet been determined.

—to at least fifty people in the next week, ending Saturday, May 1. If you can use this extra cash, read every word of this. May 1st is our first anniversary in Monterey and we intend to reduce our inventory of used cars down to the $3000 worth we started with on last May and give you some extra cash to spend. There are no prizes and this is not a contest.

Below are listed some of our fine used cars which we are going to offer in this unusual sale. The prices we quote are present market prices compiled from the advertised prices of 15,000 used cars offered in the San Francisco papers. We invite you to compare these prices with those of other dealers. We want you to be satisfied that these prices are not out of line. Now in order to move this stock quickly—in order to save you money—and at the same time give you some cash to spend, we are going to tie a
